

Summary of Evaluation of the Encourage & Praise™ Reward Charts January 2009

“There are many ways to reinforce positive behaviour. Reward charts, when used properly, are an effective, tangible tool, which parents can use to help their children develop into happy, healthy, well-rounded individuals. Simple, effective reward charts, such as the Encourage & Praise™ range, can help parents feel positive about their abilities as parents, as well as providing a simple framework that children can use to aid positive development.

The Encourage & Praise™ generic charts (available at www.EncourageAndPraise.com) alongside the bespoke charts produced to address specific issues provide a variety of tools to facilitate positive reinforcement in a wide range of situations. The flexibility within each chart enables each family to customise their charts to suit their own needs, thus increasing motivation to use the chart and improving the outcome.

The Encourage & Praise™ charts are second to none and, in my view, it is their total flexibility along with the fact that there are different charts for children at different stages of development that makes them such valuable tools for encouraging positive development.”

Dr Amanda Gummer PhD, BA (Hons), PCHE
Specialist in Child Development and Family Dynamics